Prerequisites
Economics 200

Course Objectives
By the end of this course, the student should be able to understand:
- The role that institutions play in economic development
- How economies work without widespread rule of law
- How different institutions work to facilitate trade
- The connection between political institutions and economic outcomes
- The economic differences between Europe and the rest of the world prior to and after the Industrial Revolution
- The role that religion played in facilitating or inhibiting economic outcomes in European history
- The connection between technology and economic outcomes

Students will also be required to:
- Write a term paper using economic logic to explain some event(s) in European economic history
- Participate in class discussions
- Talk one-on-one with the professor at least once regarding the term paper

Course Description
This course analyzes the evolution of European economic institutions and the development of industry, commerce, and finance from the fall of the Roman Empire to the Industrial Revolution. It traces the historical path which culminated in European economic hegemony.

Course Learning Goals
This course is aimed at facilitating critical thinking. This class will provide: 1) a general overview of important events and periods in the economic history of Europe; 2) an analysis of important historical events from an economic viewpoint.
Program Learning Outcomes
Knowledge of Economics: Each student will demonstrate knowledge of modern microeconomic and macroeconomic theories and apply these theories to analyze economic policies and problems.
Problem Solving Skill: Each student will possess the quantitative and technical skills to analyze data and interpret results to improve economic performance.
Communication: Each student will be able to communicate clearly, concisely and professionally.
Global Professional: Each student will demonstrate awareness of ethical, cultural and professional perspectives of the global economic environment.

Academic Integrity Policy
Chapman University is a community of scholars that emphasizes the mutual responsibility of all members to seek knowledge honestly and in good faith. Students are responsible for doing their own work and academic dishonesty of any kind will be subject to sanction by the instructor/administrator and referral to the university Academic Integrity Committee, which may impose additional sanctions including expulsion. Please see the full description of Chapman University's policy on Academic Integrity at www.chapman.edu/academics/academicintegrity/index.aspx.

Students with Disabilities
In compliance with ADA guidelines, students who have any condition, either permanent or temporary, that might affect their ability to perform in this class are encouraged to contact the Disability Services Office. If you will need to utilize your approved accommodations in this class, please follow the proper notification procedure for informing your professor(s). This notification process must occur more than a week before any accommodation can be utilized. Please contact Disability Services at (714) 516–4520 or visit www.chapman.edu/students/student-health-services/disability-services if you have questions regarding this procedure or for information or to make an appointment to discuss and/or request potential accommodations based on documentation of your disability. Once formal approval of your need for an accommodation has been granted, you are encouraged to talk with your professor(s) about your accommodation options. The granting of any accommodation will not be retroactive and cannot jeopardize the academic standards or integrity of the course.

Equity and Diversity Policy
Chapman University is committed to ensuring equality and valuing diversity. Students and professors are reminded to show respect at all times as outlined in Chapman’s Harassment and Discrimination Policy. Please see the full description of this policy at http://www.chapman.edu/faculty-staff/human-resources/eoo.aspx. Any violations of this policy should be discussed with the professor, the dean of students and/or otherwise reported in accordance with this policy.

Withdrawal and Drop Policy
See your Chapman University Catalogue. The last day to add courses is Friday, September 11. The last day to drop courses without record of enrollment is Friday, September 11. The last day to withdraw from courses is Friday, November 6.

Required Texts

We will also read chapters from my book that will be published next year: Rulers, Religion, and Riches: Why the West got rich and the Middle East did not (2016) Cambridge University Press. The manuscript will be made available through Blackboard. Most of the other readings are academic articles. You can download these articles on JSTOR.org or Google Scholar using any computer hooked into the Chapman network or through the Chapman library website.

Course Requirements
The course will consist of one mid-term examination, a final examination, and one term paper. There will be no make-up examinations. If the mid-term is missed, the final will carry the additional weight if and only if a valid excuse (e.g., doctor’s note) is presented.

The term paper is due in class on the date listed below. Papers are due at the beginning of class on that date. Any papers turned in after this time will be accepted, but will carry a penalty of 10 points per 24-hour time period (unless, of course, you have an extremely valid, documented excuse).

Grading
There are 100 possible points. The grading breakdown is as follows:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Class Participation</th>
<th>15 points</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Précis for Paper</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Initial submission in September</td>
<td>5 points</td>

<td>Term Paper</td>
<td>30 points</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Midterm Examination</td>
<td>20 points</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Final Examination</td>
<td>25 points</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

There are no make-up exams, nor are there early or late sittings for exams. I grade on a ten-point scale:

Term Paper
Assignment: You will investigate some event in European economic history. Your paper must focus on an event between the fall of the (Western) Roman Empire and the beginning of World War II. You will be required to stop by my office at least two weeks prior to the due date to discuss your paper topic. This office visit will count towards your class participation grade. You may use papers or books read in this class as sources, but you must cite at least five outside sources. Points will be deducted if your paper is shorter than seven pages.

Précis: Approximately one month before the paper is due, you will turn in a précis outlining the argument of your paper. The précis should be about 2 pages long and should explain i) the question you will address, ii) your hypothesis, and iii) how you plan to support your hypothesis. You will also need to include at least three of the sources you plan to use.

Three weeks into the semester you will have to turn in a preliminary précis. It should be one page long and explain a question or two that you are interested in writing about for your term paper. It should note why the questions are interesting and what you expect your hypothesis to be. It is non-binding (i.e., you can change your topic later).

Each précis will be graded and each will make up 5% of your overall grade.

Expectations: The purpose of this exercise is to apply economic logic to some event in European economic history. An economic analysis is mandatory – a mere description of events will not suffice. Your paper should search for a causal link between two or more phenomena. That is, you should construct a well-structured economic hypothesis and argue its merits using historical information.

Course Outline
This is a very tentative schedule and is subject to change at any time. All due dates and examination dates will not be changed, however.

: Optional Readings – these readings are referenced in the lectures, but they are not at the center of the lecture. Students interested in the topics should consult these readings.
