In this course we will gain a fuller understanding of modern-day America by exploring America’s economic and social development since 1900. In addition to examining overall growth and fluctuations in the economy, we will explore the economic progress of blue-collar workers, women, African Americans, immigrants, and other groups. We will devote considerable time to the Great Depression and the various migrations that went with it, by reading scholarly economic history sources and through a group project in which students will write economically and historically minded annotations to John Steinbeck’s novel The Grapes of Wrath. We will gain insight into these issues by studying them in depth from the dual perspectives of economics and history. Since this is an upper-level expository writing class, you will have many opportunities to work on and improve your writing.

And you may ask yourself, “Well, how did I get here?”
— David Byrne

For every complex problem there is an answer that is clear, simple, and wrong.
— H. L. Mencken

Good questions outrank easy answers.
— Paul Samuelson

You don’t have to burn books to destroy a culture. Just get people to stop reading them.
— Ray Bradbury

Required texts

- Various articles and book chapters, available through the Blackboard site for this course.

Optional texts that I cannot recommend strongly enough

- Diana Hacker & Nancy Sommers. Rules for Writers. Any edition. Hopefully you already have it, as the college requires it for ENG 102. It’s the best guide I’ve ever seen to writing, a comprehensive reference that works for writers of all levels. The more you consult books like this one, the better you’ll write.
- William Strunk, Jr., & E.B. White. The Elements of Style. Any edition. This slim, inexpensive paperback is packed with valuable tips on writing, from basic to advanced. It’s the best-known book about writing, and for good reason: it’s quick and painless to read, and it will almost surely improve your writing.
Something you should not be without for this course: A willingness to reach for a dictionary (print or online).

Prerequisites

ECO 101 (introductory microeconomics) and ECO 200 (introductory macroeconomics); also, ENG 102 (Composition II) or ENG 204 (Writing About Literature) or passage of exemption examination.

Learning objectives

Upon the successful completion of this course, you will be able to demonstrate:

- knowledge of a basic narrative of American economic history since 1900, including growth and fluctuations in the economy as well as economic influences upon key historical developments;
- understanding of the growth of the government and the Federal Reserve, including both causes and effects;
- understanding of how social and economic changes have affected women, African Americans, Hispanics, blue-collar workers, and other groups;
- understanding of America’s changing relationship with the rest of the world through such factors as immigration and trade policy and practices of American and foreign businesses;

and write about these phenomena in clear and concise English.

Assessment

Since this course is an expository writing class, written work will constitute an important part of your grade, and the clarity of your writing will affect how it is graded. Your course score will be a weighted average of the following:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Weekly short papers</th>
<th>50%</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Weekly one-sentence summaries (submitted in class, starting in Week 1; 12 in all)</td>
<td>20%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Weekly discussion-preparation papers (300+ words, organized into paragraphs, submitted in Blackboard, starting in Week 1; 12 in all)</td>
<td>30%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Group project: Economic history annotations of The Grapes of Wrath</td>
<td>30%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Final edits of annotations (about ten total, spanning five assigned chapters, i.e., an average of two annotations per chapter)</td>
<td>20%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Participation in group, as well as in class and Blackboard discussion forum</td>
<td>10%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Midterm exam</td>
<td>10%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Final exam</td>
<td>10%</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The grading scale is basically the standard one:

- 93-100% A;
- 90-92% A-;
- 88-89% B+;
- 83-87% B;
- 80-82% B-;
- 78-79% C+;
- 73-77% C;
- 70-72% C-;
- 68-69% D+;
- 63-67% D;
- 60-62% D-;
- 0-59% E.

Weekly short papers:
-- One-sentence summaries: Each week you will write a set of one-sentence summaries, one summary for each of the readings for the current week. Each set of summaries is due at the start of class on Monday, typed, double-spaced, and printed. These are separate from the prep papers. They are designed to sharpen your reading-comprehension and writing skills and further prepare you for class discussion. Be sure to include the author’s name and the reading’s title with each summary, so that it is clear which reading is being summarized.

A total of 12 summaries are required. Since there are 14 weeks in the semester, you can either skip two summaries papers or do one or two for up to 2 points of extra credit. You can decide for yourself which two weeks to skip, as long as neither of them is the first or second week of class.

-- Prep papers: Each week you will write a discussion “prep” paper, containing questions and comments regarding all of the assigned readings for the current week. Each week’s prep paper is due before the start of class on Wednesday and will be submitted on Blackboard. These should be written as coherent short papers with two or three paragraphs and an interesting title. The minimum length is 300 words (yes, even in weeks when we only meet once). Keeping in mind that the purpose of these papers is to spark discussion, try to write about things you find interesting or which spark your curiosity. A prep paper should not contain much summary.

A total of 12 prep papers are required. Since there are 14 weeks in the semester, you can either skip two prep papers or do one or two for up to 3 points of extra credit. You can decide for yourself which two weeks to skip, as long as neither of them is the first or second week of class.

Group project (“Annotating The Grapes of Wrath”):

-- Annotations: A guidelines sheet will soon be distributed in class and posted on Blackboard. For now, some basics: Students will be assigned to groups containing 4-6 students apiece, and five different chapters from The Grapes of Wrath will be assigned to each group. (For example, Group 1 might get Chapters 4, 6, 15, 19, and 30.) There will be six groups in all, so altogether the groups will cover all 30 chapters of the book. Each group will be responsible for producing annotations – ten in all, averaging a full paragraph each. Groups will be assigned around the end of Week 2, and a significant portion of class time will be allotted for group meetings. Group work will continue through Wednesday, May 1, when the final edits are due.

-- Participation: Your participation score for the course will depend mainly on your apparent effort in the group project, as it shows up in such factors as class attendance, contributions to the Google Document containing your group’s annotations, and assessments by other group members. Participation in class discussion, which this class tends to have a lot of, can raise your participation score as well. I will be counting on you to initiate at least some of the discussion; bringing your prep paper to class can help you with that. You can also participate online, by leaving comments, questions, and various tangential conversation starters (with or without web links) in the Blackboard discussion forum.

Exams: The exams will be part essay, part short answer, and possibly part multiple choice.

-- The scoring on the exams will be “cumulative upwards” in that if you take both exams and do better on the final than on the midterm, your final exam score will replace your midterm score. Otherwise, the two exams count equally.

-- Make-up exams will be an option only for students who have a valid, documented excuse for missing an exam. An unexcused absence on the midterm will count as a zero and will be ineligible for the “cumulative upwards” scoring described above.

Extra credit: I do not offer emergency extra credit, but there are opportunities to write additional prep papers and one-sentence summaries for extra credit (see above). There may also be extra credit for attending certain talks or campus events. Late extra credit work will not be accepted.

Writing and other help

The College Writing Center can offer valuable help in organizing, writing, and revising your papers. It is currently located in 168 Marano Campus Center and is reachable online: https://www.oswego.edu/ols/writing-center

Students who have a disability that might interfere with their ability to complete this course successfully are encouraged to speak, confidentially, to me or to contact the Office of Disability Services.
Can’t we have a little chuckle once in a while? Yes, but classroom etiquette is still important.

Classroom etiquette includes arriving on time and not leaving early, avoiding bathroom breaks, keeping one’s cell phone silent and not texting, not eating noisily or blowing bubbles, and not having private conversations. Breaches of any of these things are distracting, disruptive, and disrespectful to me and your fellow classmates.

Crime does not pay!

Per College policy, students who are caught cheating on either of the exams or the group research assignment will have their offense reported to the college authorities. Except in rare cases that seem to require a disciplinary penalty such as suspension, students who are caught cheating will typically receive an academic penalty. Students who are caught cheating on either exam, or on either draft of the research paper, will automatically fail the course. Students who are caught cheating on a prep paper or another item will receive a zero for the item in question, as well as zeroes for two other, equivalently weighted items (e.g., two other prep papers; think of it as a “treble damages” policy). In either case I am required to notify the college authorities.

What to read:

- Course syllabus (every word!)

Your first one-sentence-summaries paper and your first prep paper are both due Wed., Jan. 30. (Normally the sentence summaries are due Mondays and the prep papers Wednesdays.) Both should cover all readings (except the syllabus). Sentence summaries should be typed, double-spaced, printed, and are due in class. Prep papers get submitted on Blackboard in the Drop Box.
2 Feb. 4, 6
The First World War and the First Drug War
- Steinbeck, Chapters 1-5 (~40 pp.)

Wed., Feb. 6: Last day to add a class

Reminder: One-sentence-summaries papers are due by the start of class Monday; they should be typed and printed, and submitted in class. Prep papers are due by the start of class Wednesday in the Drop Box on Blackboard. The same goes for all future weeks, except where noted.

3 Feb. 11, 13
The Roaring Twenties
- Steinbeck, Chapters 6-9 (~50 pp.)

Fri., Feb. 15: Last day to drop a class

4 Feb. 18, 20
The Great Contraction, 1929-1933
- Steinbeck, Chapters 10-12 (~33 pp.)

5 Feb. 25, 27
The New Deal Years, 1933-1941 (I)
- Steinbeck, Chapters 13-15 (~40 pp.)

6 March 4, 6
The New Deal Years, 1933-1941 (II)
- Steinbeck, Chapters 16-17 (~38 pp.)
