Prerequisites
Economics 200, 201

Course Objectives
By the end of this course, the student should be able to understand the various mechanisms that contribute to long-run economic growth, including (but not limited to):

- Institutions (political, legal, economic, religious, etc.)
- Markets
- Technology and innovation
- Human capital
- Culture and religion

The student will be exposed to various theories on why the “modern economy” rose when and where it did. Students will be expected to analyze these theories and apply critical thinking to compare and contrast the theories.

Students will also be required to:
- Write a group term paper analyzing at least two theories on the “rise of the modern economy”
- Present, with their group, their paper to the rest of the class
- Participate in class discussions

Course Description
This course analyzes the evolution of the modern economy from various perspectives. It overviews various arguments for why the modern economy arose first in Europe and not in other parts of the world, such as China or the Middle East.

Course Learning Goals
This course is aimed at facilitating critical thinking. This class will provide: 1) a general overview of the forces that facilitate modern economic growth; 2) a comparison between various leading theories on the “rise of the West.”
Remote Instruction
This semester will be unlike any other. As new information regarding the COVID-19 pandemic emerges, we may have to change how the course is taught.

- Instructional strategy: We will begin the semester remotely, with all students expected to attend class via Zoom. If we are allowed back on campus, we will transition to a hybrid model, where some students are in class and others attend via Zoom. Since this is a participation-heavy course, students will be expected to attend at the time of the course (1pm, Monday and Wednesday) unless they have an excused absence.

- Excused absences: Beyond the normal excused absences (illness, death of a family member, etc.), I am willing to be lenient on what constitutes an excused absence. We are living through a very stressful time. In addition to the pandemic, high unemployment and important social justice issues can make everyday life seem overwhelming. Your mental, emotional, and physical health are of utmost importance to me and to the university. If you need a mental health day, just ask for it. All I ask is that you do not unduly take advantage of my leniency. I am instituting this policy to protect you and to give you the most out of your Chapman experience.

- Technology requirement: Since we start the semester by using Zoom, you will need a computer or tablet with camera and speaker or headphones. You will also need an internet connection. This will be required throughout the semester in any case, since homework is turned in via Canvas.

- Attendance: Even though we will be remote, attendance is still required! Class participation is essential to this course. I will count your attendance on Zoom just as I would if you were in the physical classroom.

- Attire: I don’t care what you wear, but please try to only where attire you would wear to class if we were to meet in person. This hopefully goes without saying, but yeah, wear a shirt.

- Office hours and group meetings: I will conduct office hours every Monday after class via Zoom. There will be an open link which you can hop onto. If you need to meet at another time or if your group (for the group project) would like to schedule a meeting, we will schedule a separate time to meet on Zoom.

All of the above, with the exception of excused absences, may be subject to change with little to no notice, depending upon state, local, and University guidelines.

Recording
In this class, software will be used to record live class discussions. As a student in this class, your participation in live class discussions will be recorded to assist those who cannot attend the live session, or to serve as a resource for those who would like to review content that was presented. These recordings will be made available only to students who are enrolled in the class, and only during the period in which the course is offered. All recordings will become unavailable to students in the class shortly after the course ends. Students who prefer to participate via audio only will be allowed to disable their video camera so only audio will be captured. Please discuss this option with me.

Safety Protocols in Response to COVID-19
In response to the current COVID-19 pandemic, Chapman University has developed the CU Safely Back program (CUSBP) and mandatory safety measures (https://news.chapman.edu/coronavirus/). The University’s mandatory safety measures may be stricter than local, state or federal guidelines and may be subject to change at any time. Students are expected to adhere to the University’s safety measures while attending classes, including when entering and exiting classrooms, laboratories, or other instructional areas. Individual faculty may choose to have requirements for their courses that are stricter than the University’s. Safety precautions and procedures may change in response to emerging findings and the recommendations of scientific experts and authorities. Refusal to abide by the University’s mandatory safety measures or to the safety requirements specific to this course will result in your being asked to leave the area immediately and may result in an administrative dismissal from this course.

The COVID-19 pandemic requires all of us to accept the possibility that changes in how this course is taught may be required and that some changes may occur with little or no notice. For example, some or all of the in-person aspects of a course may be shifted to remote instruction. If this occurs, you will be given clear instructions as to how to proceed. The uncertainty of the situation is not ideal for any of us. We must all try to approach this situation with good-will, flexibility, and mutual understanding.

Academic Integrity Policy
Chapman University is a community of scholars that emphasizes the mutual responsibility of all members to seek knowledge honestly and in good faith. Students are responsible for doing their own work and academic dishonesty of any kind will be subject to sanction by the instructor/administrator and referral to the university Academic Integrity Committee, which may impose additional sanctions including expulsion. Please see the full description of Chapman University's policy on Academic Integrity at https://www.chapman.edu/academics/academic-integrity/index.aspx.

Chapman University’s Students with Disabilities Policy
In compliance with ADA guidelines, students who have any condition, either permanent or temporary, that might affect their ability to perform in this class are encouraged to contact the Office of Disability Services. If you will need to utilize your approved accommodations in this class, please follow the proper notification procedure for informing your professor(s). This notification process must occur more than a week before any accommodation can be utilized. Please contact Disability Services at (714) 516-4520 if you have questions regarding this procedure, or for information and to make an appointment to discuss and/or request potential accommodations based on documentation of your disability. Once formal approval of your need for an accommodation has been granted, you are encouraged to talk with your professor(s) about your accommodation options. The granting of any accommodation will not be retroactive and cannot jeopardize the academic standards or integrity of the course.

Equity and Diversity Policy
Chapman University is committed to ensuring equality and valuing diversity. Students and professors are reminded to show respect at all times as outlined in Chapman’s Harassment and Discrimination Policy. Any violations of this policy should be discussed with the professor, the Dean of Students and/or otherwise reported in accordance with this policy.

Class Participation
Class participation is vital in this class. It is expected that you will have done all of the readings in advance of the class for which they are assigned. For most of the course, we will be discussing the four assigned books. This will consist of a 15-minute student presentation (see below) introducing the main topics, and then a discussion for the remainder of class. You are expected to speak in every class, and you will be graded on the quality of your comments. It will be obvious if you are unprepared, and this will be reflected in your grade.
Homework
With the exception of the first class and the group presentations at the end of the semester, there will be homework due at the beginning of every class. The homework is simple: please submit on Canvas 5 questions related to the readings for class. They can be questions you would like answered, questions you think would open up conversation, or questions linking multiple readings. These questions are meant to facilitate conversation. When the conversation stalls, I may choose one of you at random to read one of your questions to the class.

Individual Presentations
Each class will be split into two parts, corresponding to two readings. At the beginning of each part of each class, one student will be assigned to present an overview of the material. The presentation should take 10-15 minutes. Each student will make two presentations during the semester. Presentations will begin the third week of the semester. I will be randomly assigning each student to presentation slots after the second week. Your slot may be subject to change as students add and drop the course. You will need to turn in your presentation slides via Canvas.

Group Term Paper and Presentation
Please see the handout for details on the term paper and presentation.
